

Coasting indicator: How North Denes Primary School measures up?

A school is judged by the DfE to be Coasting if it is below the relevant coasting thresholds in all three years - see the Coasting Reference table (below) to see the specific threshold levels.

A school that is excluded from the coasting measure in a particular year (shown as grey shading) cannot be defined as Coasting until it has three consecutive years of data that meets the coasting definition.

These tables are based on LA calculations, and classed as 'provisional' until the DfE publish the schools' Performance Tables final results.

More information can be found on www.gov.uk

Based on the current and previous 2 years (Total of 3 years) school results, the school is classed as :
